QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

➤ Why Catalytic Converters Are Stolen

The main reason that catalytic converters are stolen is because they're valuable to scrap metal dealers. They contain precious metals, including rhodium, platinum, and palladium. ... All cars made after 1974 are required to have catalytic converters.

➤ What happens if my catalytic converter is stolen?

If your catalytic converter is stolen, you should immediately contact the police, then your insurance provider. Your insurance may cover the replacement costs, but you'll still be on the hook for your deductible. Skeerdy Cat Anti-Theft Devices can be a deterrent from having your catalytic converter from being stolen.

➤ How long does it take to steal catalytic converter?

Thieves typically use a saw or wrench to remove it, depending on whether the catalytic converter is bolted or welded in, says Edmunds — and removal can take as little as one minute.

➤ How do I know if my catalytic converter has been stolen?

You may be able to tell if your vehicle's catalytic converter has been stolen upon starting up, as the exhaust will likely sound much louder. However, some drivers might not even know the part has been stolen because a vehicle can still run without it.

➤ Why is it so expensive to replace a catalytic converter?

Cost to replace the catalytic converter of your car. Mainly because of the precious metals that are included in the converter, such as platinum, or platinum-like material such as palladium or rhodium. So, the more expensive the material, the more expensive it is to replace.

➤ How Can You Prevent Catalytic Converter Theft?

Install a Protective Device

These installations make it nearly impossible for anyone to cut off your catalytic converter. Unfortunately, high-quality devices and their installation will likely run you a few hundred bucks. However, it could save you thousands of dollars on catalytic converter replacement.

ABOUT US

We decided to design a plate that served as two functions, the main priority is to serve as a catalytic converter protection plate from theft, but we soon learned it would also make a great off road transmission skid plate.

The plate's one-piece construction adds strength to be strong enough to function as an off-road skid plate. This is one of the few skid plates that leave the factory transfer case braces intact.

Get you one today to protect your cats from thieves, and your transmission from offroad debris.
